Other Ministers lay altogether by in their retired recesses, waiting to see what things would turn to; others were hopeless, turned Farmers, and Doctors; others wylie staid at home, and Preached quietly in Ladies Chambers. But the Faithful found themselves under an indispensable necessity to Preach the Gospel, and witness for the freedom of their Ministry, and make full proof of it, in Preaching in Season, and out of Season; and thereupon as occasion offered. Preached to all such as were willing to hear; but at first, only in private Houses, and that for the most part, at such times when Sermons in publick surceased (a Supgrplus of Caution.) But afterwards, finding so great Difficulties and Persecutions for their House-Meetings, where they were so easily attrapped, were-constrained at last to keep their Meetings in the...
